THE CONFERENCE

BY WM. G. SHEPHERD.

Washington, Oct. 23 .- President Wilson himself today declared that the industrial conference which he had called to Washington had come to an end.

The president's decision not to attempt to keep the conference in session was expressed to the employers group and the public group by Franklin K. Lane, chairman of the ill fated conference.

Chairman Lane said it was the president's wish that the public group remain in session and prepare a statement for him in regard to the industrial situation in the United States.

The employers group who had offered to remain in the conference as long as the president desired were told by the chairman that the president appreciated their courtesy, but that with labor absent from the conference, the nature of the conference had changed.

COUNTRY OF ROLLING HILLS

The Drumlins, Between Syracuse and Rochester, N. Y., Make Exquisite Bit of Scenery.

Between Syracuse and Rochester hes a country of hills, known as drumlins, which is one of the most beautiful and unique bits of scenery in the eastern United States.

The term drumlin is an Irish one and is applied to low, rolling hills of glacial origin which exist in that country, and also in parts of New York and New England. This section between Syracuse and Rochester is the very heart of the American drumlins.

Most American mountains and hills were formed by violent disturbances | of the earth's surface, and their rude origin is reflected in their ruggedness. But the drumlins were built by the great ice sheet which once covered all of North America. The materials of which they are made were pushed together slowly by the crawling glaciers molded and tamped and smoothed by the great ice fingers as a child makes

The drumlins look as though they had been designed by some great intelligence with a sense of beauty, for they rise in smooth, gentle curves, like those of a perfect human body. They are remarkably uniform in height, so smooth and lenient are their slopes that many of them are cultivated to their summits. Some of them are as round as half an apple, and others are long welts or rolls.

Scattered among the hills are a numher of small lakes and ponds, clear and pretty, and there is good fishing in many of them. The drumlins are a favorite playground of the people in Syracuse, Rochester and other nearby towns, but they are little known beand the counties in which they lie.

There are two great races-the human race and the horserace-and if you must bet, lay your wager on the human race-it is safer .- Jacksonville (Fla.) Times-Union.

RECLAMATION.

After I had ridden all day through the sand-hill and sage-brush desert of the West, I began to wish for a sight of some civilized farming country But the nearer we got to our destination, the worse it was. The last stretch of the journey was on a spur of a railroad running about twentyfive miles off toward the mountains. on, what a country it was! It looked as though the process of creation had stopped before it got that far, and the primeval chaos had been leit to rule. Sandstone ridges set at every conceivable angle, clay banks for the turn. of many colors, streaks of black, oily shale, all water-furrowed and windcarved; it was worse than a desertit was absolutely deserted.

Just when it was beginning to make an impression upon me, the train passed through a cut, and swung around the hillside. There, stretchof altalfa, and the alfalfa stacks were as thick about the fields as haycocks in an Eastern meadow in July. For twelve miles we rode through that delightful country, reaching for miles away on each side of the track, literally thousands and thousands of acres of it.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

An interesting table of the grades for the month of September by the principal. This table divides the school into classes and the classes and the boys and girls. The Senior girls had the largest percentage of s, but also received more U's than any other group of girls. The Senior loys also received more E's than any other group of boys, but the Freshnun boys had a smaller percentage of U's. The Junior boys had the smallest number of E's and the largest number of U's. The Senior class percentage was higher than that of were held down by the poor showin of the Juniors. G's and F's in the school balanced andruff and falling hair. Your hair E's was slightly greater than that

Monday afternoon a notice was sent around that the High School would assemble at the Second United Presbyterian church at 2:30. After 42 arrival at the church it was found that Mrs. Lillian Burt was to give an address on Hygiene. Mrs. Burt gave several points relative to the health of our soldiers when they first went into the army and their comparison to the soldiers of the other countries. Mrs Burt gave an interesting talk, which held the interest of all, and was greatly enjoyed. The students greatly enjoyed the opportunity of

ARE DOING A GREAT DEAL OF CAMOUFLAGING THESE DAYS IN FLAMING ADVER-TISEMENT THEY SAY:

"Under the Crabbe Prohibition Enforcement Act (Section 71) a DRY detective can invade your home, break up your furniture, injure your wife or your child, and is specifically exempted from ANY responsibility if he says he was acting in good faith."

HAVE THEY READ THE CRABBE ACT OR IS THIS A DELIBER-ATE AND WILLFUL MISREPRESENTATION OF THE FACTS?

A few days ago the Secretary of State sent an official copy of the Crabbe Bill to each voter in the State, and if you will refer to it you will find that Section 50 reads as follows:

"No warrent shall be issued to search a private dwelling occupied as such unless some part of it is used as a store or shop, hotel or boarding house, or for any other purpose than a private residence or unless such residence is a place of public resort for drinking liquors, or intoxication liquor is manufactured, sold or furnished therein in violation of the law. Provided, that the word 'possess' as used in this act in reference to intoxicating liquors shall not apply to intoxicating liquors in a bona fide private residence."

MAN WHO LOST HIS MEMORY WAS FOUND

W. S. Fogle and Henry W. Jones returned to this city Monday night, bringing with them William Fogle, for three weeks missing as a result of injuries sustained about the head which resulted in pressure on the brain and temporary loss of memory,

The young man is now at the home of his father in this city and local physicians believe with proper medical treatment he will speedily regain his normal condition. His present condition is due to pressure on brain by a small blood clot which it is expected will speedily be absorbed, leaving him in possession of all his mental faculties.

When located by means of one of the circulars sent out by Mr. Jones the young man was at work in a mine where he had been employed since Oct. 1st doing blasting in the mine. It is believed that his condition is better than at first. He complains of pain in his head .- Washington Her-

FARMERS--Attention!

The rapid introduction of farm electric plants during the past few years has brought with it the important question of service.

"SERVICE," it should be unders tood, means the expert attention to his electric plant which the owner may never need but which he can have on short notice if he ever requires it.

The farmer is not an electrician and he doesn't want to be one. He is experienced with machinery and he knows how to take care of it, but he also knows that the best machinery in the world sometimes needs expert attention and he wants to know that there's an experienced mechanic within reach to give his electric plant attention if it becomes necessary. In other words he expects "service."

There are these two main things to be considered in the purchase of a farm electric plant; the matter of other users' experiences.

And important—is there a loc al representative of the particular plant in question. If there is an es tablished representative of a plant in the community, prompt "service," if it is ever needed, is assured. Such a representative is in a position to "take care" of his customers.

The average farmer is a good and careful buyer, and will doubtless take into consideration the things mentioned here. If he does he can be assured of enjoying continuous and dependable electric service in his home.

Fate played into Rose's hands. The very next day we stopped for some soda, and who should follow us in but Walter Kemp. He insisted on treating us, and sat beside us as we all three drank what we had ordered.

Rose acted disgracefully-yet before I was married I would not have thought so perhaps. She flirted abominably, and made what brothers called 'goo-goo eyes' at him the whole blessed time. I could see that he was attracted and my jealous nature flared up again. I knew I could not be with Walter Kemp that I could not entertain him in my home, yet I felt twinges of jealousy as I saw him turn to Rose, laugh and joke with her, admiration on his face.

Rose was right. She often used slangy expressions, but she used them such a way they were not offensive. She had style, too, and dressed well. I was really proud of her as a guest, yet I did not want my men friends to now her more attention that they did
